PUNJABIS BEAT OFF AXIS COUNTER-ATTACKS

SLIGHT ALLIED WITHDRAWAL ON MEDJEZ EL BAB SECTOR: MESSINA AND NAPLES BOMBED

LONDON, April 29.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa:—To-day's "communique" says that north-east of Medjez El Bab, the Germans launched two strong counter-attacks, after the second of which, Allied leading troops made a slight withdrawal.

Slight Allied Withdrawal

The text of today's 'communique' states: "Fighting continued yesterday on the Tunisian front. On the Eighth Army front, there was very active patrolling. Fierce fighting took place on the First Army front north-east of Medjez El Bab where our forces made some advance and where the enemy launched two strong counter-attacks. The first was repulsed with heavy loss to enemy infantry and tanks but the second forced our leading troops to make a slight withdrawal".

AMERICAN CORPS' PROGRESS

The 'communique' adds: "In the south, French forces made further local gains. In the north, the American Second Corps made further progress and gained some important ground.

Light bombers and fighter-bombers of tactical airforce continued their attacks on enemy positions and transport.

PUNJABI REGIMENT'S RECORD

CAIRO: Pushing along the crest of a mountain top, north of Enfidaville a few days ago, a battalion of a Punjab Regiment stormed two German sangars in one of "the bloodiest encounters of the war."

Official observers say as that Germans laid a heavy mortar barrage and mustered for an attack. The Punjabis were sufficiently close to hear the enemy shouting "Germans—no, Italians" whereupon the Punjabis raised a great shout "Punjabis." The Punjabis stood firm, as the Germans charged at them with bayonets. For 30 minutes surging through dustclouds, shooting and stabbing the Punjabis fought on, till not a German was left standing. Counter-attacks by the Axis forces failed to dislodge the Punjabis from the vital mountain-top.

Fall Of Pont-Du-Fahs Imminent

LONDON, April 29.

News of the fall of Pont-du-Fahs may be expected any moment, writes Reuter's military correspondent to-day. French troops are already beyond this important road junction to the south and the First Army is threatening to cut it off in the north. Its loss will sever the vital supply route to Rommel's forces facing the Eighth Army and indeed may force them to withdraw to avoid being taken in the rear.

Americans forging through difficult country are now approaching Mateur from which point they could govern the direct road and railway between Bizerta and Tunis.

NAPLES AND MESSINA BOMBED

CAIRO: Daylight attacks by American bombers on the docks at Naples and Messina harbour are reported in to-day's Middle-East Air "communique".

The 'communique' reads: "In a daylight attack on the harbour at Messina yesterday by heavy bombers of the United States Army Airforce hits were scored on the ferry terminus and installations and fires were started in the railway yards south of the terminus. At the same time as the successful attack on Messina, another formation of United States Army Airforce heavy bombers raided the docks at Naples, their bombs scoring direct hits on their targets. In the course of these operations at least four of enemy fighters which attempted to interfere were shot down. From these and other operations one of our aircraft has not returned."

ROME CONFIRMS IT.

ROME: To-day's Italian "communique" said, fighting continues along the Tunisian front. Enemy bombing raids yesterday caused losses and damage at Naples, Messina, Syracuse and Lampedusa island.

FOOD CONFERENCE

LONDON: General de Gaulle and General Giraud have agreed on the principle of joint French representation at the forthcoming United Nations Food Conference at Hotsprings, Virginia, learns Reuter's diplomatic correspondent.

The United States' Government informed General de Gaulle and General Giraud that it was prepared to issue a single joint invitation to the French but not two separate invitations to fighting France and the French in North Africa.

Allied Attack On Axis Shipping

LONDON, April 29.

From Reuter's Special Correspondent: Allied Headquarters in North Africa: Allied medium bombers and fighter bombers cooperated to strike a damaging blow at the vital Axis seaplane between Sicily and Tunis yesterday by destroying or damaging eleven Axis ships and shooting down twelve escorting fighters.

General Alexander's Allied armies are continuing the progress made in the Axis mountain defences.

British infantry occupied the village of Sidi Ahmas which lies ten miles north of Medjez-el-bab and to the north of the road to Tebourba. The American Second Corps is still battling its way forward in the face of sustained and ferocious opposition towards the mountain pass of Jefna.

To the south of the American front, United States forces have occupied the North-Eastern slopes of Djebel Meftah about seven miles east, south-east of Sidirsir. This important feature overlooks the horseshoe plain landing eastwards to Tebourba, North-east of Medjez-el-Bab, bitter fighting raged all day yesterday as the British continued to battle with the Germans from their positions four hundred feet from the crest of Djebel Bou Aoukaz. The Germans obviously attach great importance to this height, and yesterday put in a strong attack. As a result of the second attack, the British had to withdraw slightly, but not before heavy casualties in men and tanks had been inflicted on the Germans. Djebel Bou Aoukaz lies about nine miles south-east of Tebourba and the British are still firmly holding the western slopes of the feature. The pace of the British advance has been slowed down, and the position has stabilised four miles east of Medjez. As the battle gains in intensity, it is of interest to note that the Axis Command has only Germans facing the First Army. The only appreciable number of Italians are on the Eighth Army Front, where the Axis forces are holding strong mountain positions.

At the present stage of the battle, it would be over-optimistic to suppose that the Allied armies can continue to advance indefinitely at the speed maintained in the first days of the attack.—Reuter.

NO CHANGE ON ARAKAN FRONT

Jap Efforts At Penetration Repulsed

NEW DELHI, April 29

On the Arakan front there is no change in the general situation, says an India command joint war "communique". Japanese efforts to penetrate our positions at several places have been vigorously repulsed.

Yesterday, in close support of our ground forces R.A.F. bombers and fighters made concentrated attacks on enemy objectives along the Mayu bridge. Bursts were observed in the target area and the Japanese occupied village of Ngabyawchaungwya was set on fire. Another formation of Blenheims bombed Tinledu in the upper Chindwin area and demolished a number of buildings inside a fortified stockade.

CENTRAL BURMA BOMBED

B-25 medium bombers of the tenth U. S. Air Force concentrating their attacks on varied enemy installations in Central Burma have achieved excellent results during the past several days.

JAP PLANES DESTROYED

An attack against the railroad installations at Thazi junction on April 27, had good results. This formation was intercepted by enemy fighters and in a running battle lasting half an hour one enemy fighter is claimed as probably destroyed and two additional enemy planes were damaged. The Kanbalu engine sheds and docks and river shipping at Katha were successfully attacked.

ENEMY INSTALLATIONS ATTACKED

Enemy installations were attacked at Nsopzup, Manyaseik and Tahona with fragmentation bombs and by strafing.

From these several operations all of our bombers and crews returned safely. One fighter plane is missing.—A.P.

Justice Partymen To Embrace Islam?

TRICHINOPOLY, April 25.

Unveiling a map of 'Dravida Nadu' at the Trichy District Justice Party Conference, Mr. E. V. Ramaswami Naicker, assured Mr. Jinnah that success would be obtained for his agitation for 'Pakistan.' When it was achieved, the 'Dravidastan' scheme would also be accomplished.

If 'Dravidastan' failed, Mr. Naicker said that he and his followers would embrace Islam and establish 'Pakistan' here also.

The conference was opposed to the spread of the Sri Sai Baba cult as it was, in its opinion, another 'Aryan' cult, and exhorted the partymen to carry on a 'crusade' against it.—"Indian Express."

Wilhelmshaven Bombed

R.A.F. Mining Operations In Baltic

LONDON, April 29.

Today's Air Ministry 'communique' states "last night, aircraft of bomber command were again engaged in mining operations on a very large scale particularly in the Baltic sea.

Wilhelmshaven was also bombed. 23 of our bombers are missing".

Today's Admiralty 'communique' states "during offensive sweep off the Dutch Coast before dawn today light coastal forces under the Command of Lieut. Peter G. C. Dickens engaged an enemy armed trawler near Igmuiden. In the course of a spirited action which followed the trawler was hit repeatedly and was seen to sink.

Rs. 25 Lakhs For Uplift Of Backward Classes

The Director of Information, Bombay, writes:

The Committee appointed by the Government of Bombay to consider ways and means for the improvement of the Backward Classes has recommended that most of the Rs. 25 lakhs earmarked for these classes from the Special Development Fund should be devoted to basic schemes of education, agricultural and industrial improvements and medical facilities.

The educational improvements which the Committee recommends are the expansion of the existing hostels for Central Primary Schools for Backward Class students, especially from Aboriginal and Hill tribes and the opening of 25 new hostels—four in Surat District, four in Thana, six in West Khandesh, four in Nasik, two in Kolaba, three in Ratnagiri and two in Kanara.

FEMALE EDUCATION

To encourage female education among the Backward Classes, hostels for girls attending primary and secondary schools should be opened at suitable centres. The grants for girl inmates of Backward Class hostels should be increased and hostels which have been run satisfactorily for not less than five years should be given grants to construct their own buildings.

The rules are applicable for the duration of the war.—A. P.

Ahrar Council's Plea For Mutual Confidence

SAHARNAPUR, April 29.

The Council of the All-India Majlis-i-Ahrar after prolonged discussion adopted a resolution expressing the view that the complicated problems of Indian politics could be solved only through peace and mutual confidence between the people inhabiting this country.

The Council appealed to the protagonists of the schemes of Akhand Bharat, Pakistan and Azad Punjab, to proceed on lines of mutual goodwill and understanding and expressed the opinion that if any party believed that it could establish any such scheme with the British aid, it should not ignore the fact that any scheme set up under the auspices of the British would lead to the country's perpetual enslavement.

The Majlis-i-Ahrar, therefore, had no interest in any scheme, the success of which depended on the assistance of the British.—A.P.

"London Times" On Jinnah's Tactics

LONDON, April 29.

Mr. Jinnah was "very much the party tactician", says the "London Times" in an editorial to-day on the All-India Moslem League session just concluded.

"What is now required is not tactics but courageous statesmanship from all parties—in India and here," the newspaper says. "The Congress Party's continued refusal of responsibility in Government and the preoccupation of most of its leaders with the now stale dispute over Mr. Gandhi's detention have left the field more or less to Mr. Jinnah and his colleagues and they have made most of the opportunity.

The Viceroy's Council can, in no sense, satisfy Indian aspirations. But it can and does provide a working model of that communal co-operation without which talk about unity of India must remain a mockery. So long as practical experience of such co-operation over a wide field is lacking the political prospect is bleak."—Reuter.

LONDON:— The Chairman of the Barclays Bank, Dominion, Colonial and Overseas Sir John Caulcutt died on Thursday.

'G. B. S.' DEMANDS MAHATMA'S RELEASE

The Chicago "Times" deplores "the denial of freedom of expression" to Gandhiji and Pandit Nehru.

Columnist Tinney comments: "Nothing has aroused American sympathy for India more than the news that the Viceroy had denied Mr. Phillips an opportunity to see Mr. Gandhi and Pandit Nehru."

Nazis Prepare For Offensive

Intense Air Activity On Leningrad And Kuban Fronts

LONDON, April 29.

The Moscow Radio stated today that the Germans are preparing for an offensive in Russia, and dozens of fresh divisions from Eastern Europe are being moved up to the front.

The announcer added: "we shall be called upon to make many sacrifices, for we can only win by making full use of all our resources. This is the decisive moment. The Red Army has laid the foundations of victory. Fighting men of the Red Army hit hard for the utter annihilation of the enemy".

The announcer disclosed that the Red Army's winter offensive had cost the Germans 850,000 men killed, and nearly 350,000 taken prisoners, and material German losses included 5090 planes, 9190 tanks, and 20,360 guns.

MOSCOW: The morning despatch from Reuter's Special Correspondent says: "Soviet patrols and guns during the night probed and pounded German lines in Russia, preparatory to an expected new big Red Army offensive.

Recording these activities today's Soviet 'communique' said that on the Central Front, Soviet scouts raiding a column moving up to the front line killed 30 Germans and took prisoners. Another Soviet patrol in a raid south of Balakleya, the Soviet bridgehead below Kharkov, killed 52 German officers and men.

West of Rostov Russian guns smashed four German blockhouses, one artillery battery, two mortar batteries and dispersed or partly annihilated about a battalion of German infantry.

The latest front line despatches this morning report intense air activity on the Leningrad and Kuban fronts. In the Kuban, small groups of Soviet fighters are breaking up and diverting mass German bombing formations.

Large-Scale Offensive By Soviet

LONDON, April 29.

The German Radio Military Commentator, Captain Ludwig Sertorius said tonight (Thursday) that the Russians have launched a large-scale attack from the Kuban bridgehead early this morning. "The centre of the attack", Captain Sertorius added, "is directed against the North-Eastern flank of the German positions on both sides of the town of Krimskaya".—Reuter.

LONDON REACTION TO BOMBAY BULLION BOOM

LONDON, April 28.

Reuter's City correspondent, wires:—The general opinion is the bullion boom in Bombay where yesterday, prices of gold were around 19 sterling and silver almost five shillings an ounce with more or less comparable conditions in various near eastern bullion markets, reflecting only a highly artificial situation and cannot be considered as measuring the intrinsic value of the metals or be an augury for mining shares.

The degree of inflation at present existing in India apparently is larger than was generally appreciated, witness the rapid rise of the general index of Indian commodity prices in the past six months.

The present high bullion prices must be considered speculative since although both Keyne's and the U.S. Treasury's currency plans assure gold's post-war place, neither can envisage a postwar world price anywhere near the present Bombay level.

From the British request for lend-and-lease silver from the United States, Bombay apparently infers that Indian Government's stocks are less than previously supposed as otherwise the British Government would have drawn from them but this interpretation is almost certainly unwarranted.

London suggests, if the Indian Government itself acquired even a token quantity of lend-and-lease silver, Bombay would sharply react, but in Bombay's present mood, even this might be construed bullishly.—Reuter.

Polish Apologia Does Not Satisfy Moscow

Soviet Demand Repudiation Of Those Responsible For Appeal To International Red Cross

LONDON, April 29.

Reuter's correspondent in Moscow wires:—

The statement issued in London by the Polish Government last night, which amongst other things asked Russia to release Polish men now fighting on the Soviet soil and families of members of the Polish armed forces has not yet been published here.

Observers who heard of the statement through the B.B.C. broadcast assert that it makes no contribution towards bridging the gulf dividing the Soviet and Polish standpoints.

It gives no indication they say, of any change in the Polish Cabinet—not even a moderate change which would indicate repudiation of those responsible for the appeal to the International Red Cross.—Reuter.

Polish Govt.'s Assurance To Russia

LONDON, April 28.

The following statement was issued on Wednesday by the Polish Government in London:—

"The Polish Government affirm that their policy of aiming at friendly understanding between Poland and Soviet Russia on the basis of the integrity and full sovereignty of the Polish Republic was and continues to be fully supported by the Polish nation.

In the press statement of April 17, 1943, the Polish Government categorically denied to Germany right to abuse the tragedy of Polish officers for her own perfidious schema

About the same time, a note was sent to the Soviet Ambassador accredited to the Polish Government asking once again for information which would help to elucidate the fate of the missing officers

The Polish Government and people look to the future. They appeal in the name of the solidarity of the United Nations and elementary humanity for the release from U.S.S.R. of thousands of families of Polish armed forces engaged in fight or preparation in Great Britain and Middle-East to take their part in the fight—tens of thousands of Polish orphans and children for the education of whom they would take full responsibility and who now—in view of German mass slaughter—are particularly precious to the Polish people.

RELIEF WORK.

The Polish army in waging war against Germany will also require for reinforcement all fighting Polish males who are now on Soviet soil and the Polish Government appeal for their release.

They reserve their right to plead the cause of all these persons to the world.

In conclusion, the Polish Government plead for continuation of relief and welfare to the mass of Polish citizens who will remain in U.S.S.R.

In defending the integrity of the Polish Republic which accepted war with the Third Reich the Polish Government never claimed and do not claim in accordance with their statement of February 25 1943, any Soviet territories.

It is and will be the duty of every Polish Government to defend the rights of Poland and of Polish citizens.

CAREFULLY WEIGHTED INDIRECT REPLY.

Reuter's diplomatic correspondent in London, writes:—

The statement contains what in the opinion of its Polish authors is a constructive suggestion for a basis on which the state of Soviet-Polish controversy might be wiped clean after which a fresh start might be made in the relations between the two Governments.

If the Soviet Government will take up the question of evacuation of Polish women, children and ex-soldiers still in Russia, the Polish Government is prepared, it is understood, to drop the subject of missing Polish officers as a political issue.

This is what is meant by the phrase in the statement "The Polish Government and people look to the future."

At the same time the statement deliberately avoids reference to the Polish Government's request to the International Red Cross the inference being that the idea is dead.

Further the statement ignores the Soviet's severance of relations. The implication here is that this will be by-gone and treated as such if the Soviet Government responds to the Polish "appeal" concerning Poles in Russia.

The Polish Government has cabled the text of the statement to its Ambassador, M. Romer in Moscow where he is still in residence.—Reuter.

"INVASION" REHEARSALS?

LONDON, April 29.

Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, High Commissioner in Canada, disclosed at a Press Conference in London to-day that a great majority of Canada's 450,000 soldiers were in Britain training to be the vanguard for what, he said, would no doubt prove the toughest job in the war—the invasion of Europe. He had no doubt that when the time came, they would show qualities as great as any troops in the world.—Reuter.

A HOT CATCH!

ADELAIDE, April 29.

John Bromwich, Australian Davis Cup Lawn Tennis player, and also Australian singles champion at the outbreak of the war, has made one of the most surprising "catches" in the annals of cricket. When fielding in a cricket match in New Guinea, where he is on service, he caught a .22 calibre bullet accidentally discharged. In a letter to a friend here, Bromwich says that he instinctively raised his hands in front of his head, just in time to deflect the bullet, which entered the palm of his left hand, struck the bone, travelled a short way along the muscle, then merged from the hand, passing in front of his forehead.—Reuter.

Roosevelt's Warning To Mine Workers

LONDON, April 29.

President Roosevelt has appealed to the mine workers to resume work immediately and submit their case to the War Labour Board for final determination.

"If the work of the mines is not resumed by ten o'clock on Saturday morning, I shall use all power vested in me as President and Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy to protect national interest and prevent further interference with the successful prosecution of the war", President Roosevelt declared.

No Religion In Politics

Mahasabha Stands For Equal Rights For All, Says Mukherjee

JULLUNDUR, April 29.

A declaration that the Hindu Mahasabha would cease to exist the day the poison of religion was removed from politics was made by Dr. Shyama Prosad Mookherjee, in a joint reply to the addresses presented to him at a public meeting by the Jullundur Municipality, the Local Hindu Sabha, the Akali Jath, the Balmik Samaj, the Hindu Students Federation and the Communist Party.

"Till then" he said, "Hindu rights must be protected by Hindu organisations. When I ask Hindus to rise up, I mean them to do so for India's freedom. When I ask Hindus and Muslims to rise and unite, I mean for unity and freedom of the Motherland. The Hindu Mahasabha stands for equal rights for all communities."

Referring to Pakistan, Dr. Mookherjee said, it was unintelligible and the death knell of hopes of India's freedom. In any case he suggested its postponement for the duration of the war.

"I have brought a message of goodwill and comradeship for the Punjab from Bengal. If the Punjab and Bengal unite, they can work wonders for the political life of India. Let patriotic young men imbued with the spirit of love for the Motherland go out to work for unity." said Dr. Shyama Prosad Mookherjee, presiding over the prize-giving function of the local D. A. V. College last evening.—A.P.

BRINGING LAW INTO CONTEMPT

The Government of India's Ordinance validating the illegalities perpetrated under the Defence of India Rule 26 is not the first piece of legislation calculated to bring law into contempt nor does it seem likely to be the last. A constitutionally irresponsible Government will always be tempted to tamper with men's rights and liberties intoxicated with the thought that, even if they are proved to have done lawless things, they can overnight issue an Ordinance legalising all the past lawlessnesses and completely indemnifying all the officials who had been guilty of them.

It may be remembered that only a few days ago the Government of the United Provinces issued with one stroke of the pen an Ordinance indemnifying all the officers who might have committed any excesses in dealing with the disturbances in the province. It is usual for legislatures to pass such Indemnity Acts after martial law regimes on the grounds, among others, that the military who have to maintain law and order are not well versed in the processes of the normal civil law and that such acts help in restoring peace. But, apart from the fact that the Acts are passed by the legislatures with due safeguards, they are generally followed by inquiries so that grave crimes by officers might not be hushed up in the absence of any law suits. In the present case there has been no martial law. The Governor realises this and pleads that, "although martial law was not declared the circumstances were similar to those under martial law in some instances by the imperative need of restoring order in the interests of the defence of India to take measures not covered by a provision of law." It is miserable specious pleading to argue that because in some respects some of the recent circumstances were somewhat similar to those under martial law, all the officers concerned are to be indemnified. The officers were all specially trained in the processes of civil law and to condone their deliberate violations of law is practically to encourage them and others to flout law. Secondly, the Indemnity Act is not passed by the Legislature, which would have insisted upon proper safeguards for justice. Finally, it is obvious that there is to be no inquiry into the alleged excesses, and the facts about these, however frightful, may never see the light of day. One is tempted to ask if this is not one of the main reasons why law suits are prohibited against the officers.

Thus the game of legalising illegalities and indemnifying persons guilty of them is nothing new, and the latest Ordinance of the Government of India will not be the last. There are still many illegalities awaiting to be converted into legalities. The new Ordinance is regarded by some to be itself invalid. It may be. But what is it to a Government who can in a trice issue a fresh validating ordinance as often as is necessary? There is no doubt, however, such mockery brings law into contempt and removes all hope of people getting justice in political cases.

Stilwell-Chennault Mission

The United States Office of War Information summary of last week's military news says: "In the Pacific, where United Nations bombers blasted Japanese land bases and ships while China's army kept the enemy occupied on land, the situation was substantially unchanged from previous weeks" (our italics). The words we have italicised are not, we are sure, intended as any snub to any one. But they are welcome because of the too much noise that has persistently been made about the imminent menace of a Jap invasion to this country and that country in the midst of complete silence about the country where the invasion has been a reality for five years and which has been bearing by far the main brunt of the war on land. It is good to know that America now recognises that fact and gives public expression to it.

But while U. S. recognizes the dominant part that China is playing in the war against Japan it is not enough merely to declare that China's army is keeping the enemy occupied on land. Some material recognition of it is called for if not in proportion to her sacrifices and services at least comparable to the assistance that Australia, which is not keeping the enemy occupied on land, has been receiving thanks to the alarm that her leaders so loudly raise at regular intervals. That China needs the aid consistently denied to her has long been obvious and admitted—verbally. Its urgency and importance are further stressed now by the arrival in Washington of General Stilwell and Brigadier-General Chennault. Will their representations be received as they should be as a matter of moral and material obligation to China whose army has kept the enemy occupied on land?

FRANKLY SPEAKING

1942 Shipping Losses

Statements have of late been made in the United States giving a series of varying facts as to the proportion of shipping losses to new construction in 1942. These conflicting statements have caused confusion as to the actual position. But whether losses exceeded construction or vice versa the undoubtedly serious situation of 1942 has now greatly improved. Mr. Churchill and Colonel Knox have both assured that the United Nations are more than holding their own. And it was only last week that Mr. Davis, Director of the U. S. Office of War Information, made the definite announcement that new construction in the U. S. alone had long outstripped sinkings.

Rapid Improvement

At the same time successful efforts are being increasingly made to reduce sinking by checking the effectiveness of the U-boat itself. Anti-submarine escort vessels are being built and put into service in their hundreds to fight the menace on the surface. Various other new devices and weapons are also being used, one of the most interesting of which is the Helicopter, a plane, which can rise vertically, remain suspended in mid air or move forward or backward. It now operates in the mid Atlantic area from small decks of merchantmen hovering over submarines and either destroying them or radioing for it. The use of Helicopters has put the entire Atlantic under aerial ing improvements in methods and instruments are bound to change the situation as regards the U-boat. Indeed, it is not without significance that a German commentator should have just made an admission about the freedom which the United Nations enjoy on the seas. So that when things have become even much better with the clearing up of the Mediterranean presently, would be a poor excuse, to delay the Second Front because of shipping difficulties.

D. I. R.

It seems incredible that a seventeen year old student would be given five years' rigorous imprisonment for merely hoisting the Congress Flag on a Court room and raising slogans there. But such a savage sentence was actually inflicted upon a student in the Punjab. The boy was lucky in his appeal to the Lahore High Court where Mr. Justice Abdul Rashid reduced the sentence to the term already undergone. But such luck is rare under the ruthless D. I. Rules and miscarriages of justice are frightfully common. Under these blessed rules men need not be tried at all before being jailed for indefinite periods.

Jinnah's 100 Million

You suggest that authoritative facts and figures should be adduced to support the claims of the Momin Conference to represent four and a half crores of Muslims. I feel that you should also suggest that Mr. Jinnah be asked to tell the world how he arrives at a following of his 'one hundred million.' Perhaps both parties could oblige by giving particulars?
VERITAS.

Blanks In Our Education

It should be of use to us in India to know how others discern defects in their practice of education which can be remedied by an energetic attitude without great financial costs.

1. A letter from California to the American "New Republic" of September 28, says "Teachers do not read anything but the newspapers—and only the conservative ones at that." This may evoke in us here, according to our disposition, complacency, contempt (of the little advance among those we thought better of), or hope. There can be little doubt which of these is the most sensible.

2. A more specialised point. A book on 'Prediction in Psychology' perforce uses statistical methods, but the exact theory of these methods is not known by the psychologists. (Or. Am. J. Sociology, XLVIII 75). The result can only be fuzzy, and incomplete to a degree that is unnecessary. We could easily here, if our Boards of Studies were alert, adjust our courses to go far towards meeting this need.

3. On January 5, 1942, Columbia University announced: "Students ..... for the Ph.D. degree in Economics will find it advantageous to acquire familiarity with the calculus and higher algebra." What a break with tradition in progressive America! Translating in terms of our circumstances here, tradition being probably less strong with us, we could with ease go one or two better. Certainly we need be no more than a couple of years behind New York in this respect if we educationalists were less complacent. Yet it seems we do not want to be disturbed by considering the real needs of our students; and the students, in their ignorance, trust us!

"Control" is on the lips of everyone. And yet there are administrators who were thinking recently in terms of moving back to the old ways after the war when these troublesome "special appointments" would once again by unnecessary! 'Verb. sap.' Utopia will not come without special exertion. For example, the right to work should certainly be applicable to India; but who can imagine that it will work out spontaneously without having some people trained to diagnose and check and cure? Another actual case; in "Machine Shop" a year ago the Director of the National Physical Laboratory is reported as urging that Statistical Control (comprehensively expounded in 1931 by Shewhart of the Bell Telephone System) be applied in the factories in Britain. Sir Charles Darwin knew what he was talking about; but the engineer-journalist showed that he had grasped the matter (which is quite elementary) only vaguely!

Ration Shops' Grievances

A special meeting of the authorised Ration Distributors of the city of Bombay was held at Mahajanwadi, Palagally, under the auspices of the Indian Grain Dealers' Federation, on Wednesday night. Mr. Gulamhussain A. Sonawala, Vice-President of the Federation, presided.

Several grievances of grain dealers due to red tape methods were discussed. The dealers promised full co-operation in making rationing a success, and asked that Government for their part should see that their machinery worked more smoothly.

Rationing Grievances Of Workers

In the course of a statement explaining the grievances of the workers in the matter of rationing, the Bombay Committee of the Communist Party state:—

Thousands have not yet received their rationing cards, thousands are yet to be enumerated. The quantity of ration hardly suffices for a normal person. Under flimsy pretexts the owners of mills are trying to wrest the privilege of credit from the workers. Where factories have no grain shops of their own, the workers are promised no date when they would be entitled to their supplementary cards. The problems of the 'badli', the 'homeless', of the office-going people who lunch in one club and dine at another, are yet 'under consideration'. The scheme is one big bundle of blunders and bunglings, thanks to bureaucracy's insistence resisting people's co-operation.

The problem does not end with the introduction of rationing. It rather begins. But whatever the difficulties, rationing must not be allowed to fail. Towards this end the Bombay Committee has launched a campaign. This will terminate in a mass rally on 2nd May at the Kamgar Maidan.

INDIA THROUGH TURKISH EYES

M. ATAY ON PAKISTAN

(By Falih Rifki Atay in the "Ulus".)

ANKARA, March 25.

The aim of the Congress is to create a national State of 350 odd million Indians. However, in this organisation which pretends to represent all the population, the Hindus have a majority of 95 per cent. Its present President, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, is a Muslim, but Muslim Congressmen are neither numerous enough nor important enough to impress the great masses of the Muslims. Apart from the local Governments, which want to protect their existence, and the 50,000,000 outcasts, who fear that their condition will become worse under Hindu dominance, the Congress is faced with an extremely difficult obstacle: the Muslim League. The Congress believes that the local Governments will disappear with the withdrawal of the British from India, but the Muslim nationalists, who assert that they are not only a religious group but a different nation, are their principal worry.

The Hindus say: "What does it matter if we have different religions? Are we not all born and living in the same land, and are we not of the same race? The Muslims did not arrive in a mass immigration. Ninety per cent of them are natives who changed their religion. We may go to different temples, but we can all live under the same flag." Although the Hindu nationalist does not attach great importance to the difference in language, he does not at the same time consider the language problem insoluble in a united India. Says he: "Hindustani is the language spoken by a large mass of the population. This language, as long as it attains the level of science, philosophy and literature, may be called 'Hindi' by the introduction of Sanskrit words, or may be called 'Urdu' by adding Arabic and Persian words. If we exclude the superfluous Sanskrit, Arabic and Persian words from the Hindi and Urdu languages, we could create a new official language for the new State. We could accept the regional languages as semi-official languages. Are there no political unions in Europe which have two or three languages? The main point is not whether it should be Hindi or Urdu, but whether it should be Hindustani or English."

The Muslims, however, consider all these arguments as the political tricks of Hindu imperialism. Besides, the movement of language unification started by Gandhi was met with disfavour by both sides in the beginning. The Hindus, who write from the left, and the Muslims, who write from the right, both demurred, the former stating that to abandon Sanskrit would be tantamount to abandoning their culture, and the latter holding that to give up Arabic and Persian words would mean giving up their distintive culture.

For a long time the Muslims united with the Congress in the policy against Britain. But when the Congress refused to recognise the rights of various Indian communities and put forward the idea of a single Indian State, Muslim intellectuals began to ask for a separate State (Pakistan) for the Muslims, especially in the areas where they were in a majority. Jinnah started a Muslim union, named the Muslim League, which grew to become the second largest party in India and told the British Government that they would not remain under Hindu dominance and asked them first of all to transfer political responsibilities to their owners.

In discussing the Pakistan question we shall remain objective, as we did when we discussed the Congress policy, and we shall present to the readers of the "Ulus" the assertions of the Pakistan nationalists as they are.

Adherents of Pakistan point to the division of Europe into various States and hold that various zones in India are as different from one another as those in Europe. Both Europe and India have a long history. India possessed a civilisation long before Europe. There is a great variety of races and languages in Europe—larger, in fact, than in India. The European nations are of the same race, the white race. The Indian races derive from three sources: white, yellow and black. There are 30 national States in Europe. How can India be a single State?

According to the adherents of Pakistan, from the point of view of language an inhabitant of the Punjab is no more related to, say, an inhabitant of Madras than is a Scandinavian. There is no resemblance whatever between a Scandinavian and a Punjabi. Why does one look for a resemblance between a Punjabi and a Madrasi?

As in Europe there are national Governments in India. If it is possible to establish a Federation of United States of Europe, it is equally possible to establish such a Federation in India. But a single national State of 350,000,000 people of different races and religions is mere imagination.

Two hundred and twenty-five languages are spoken in India, apart from the dialects. These languages derive from nine separate language groups, whereas 46 out of the 60 European languages are of the same group. Get an inhabitant of the North-West Frontier [illegible] one of Assam to sit down together. The first comes from a country where there is very little rainfall, which is very hot in the summer and very cold in the winter, and is mountainous. He is brown and tall, has a large chin, and his face and body are hairy. His lips are thin and his nose is sharp. He eats wheat bread and meat. The Madrasi, on the other hand, in view of the tropical climate of his province, dresses very lightly. He is short and dark. His nose is flat, but his nostrils are large. He has thick lips. He is a Dravidian. Rice is his principal food. The yellow colour of the inhabitant of Assam immediately conveys the impression that he is of the Mongol race. He is short and has a flat nose, his face bones are jutting out, and his eyes are drawn and small. His hair is flat. He has little beard, but his arms and legs are covered with hair. He also lives on rice.

These three persons represent three specimens of humanity, argue the adherents of Pakistan. They can talk business among themselves, but to expect them to form a united group based on common nationality is absurd.

These facts are mentioned in order to prove the general difference between Hindus and Muslims, but there are special contradictions between them. Lord Morley said in the House of Lords: "The difference between the Muslims and Hindus is not only a difference of religion and dogma. They are different from each other in all the beliefs and ideals created by their mode of living, traditions, history and social unity." The difference between the Hindus who divided themselves into castes, and the Muslims, who do not know classes and have been united for centuries, has continually increased. This estrangement is not the result of the British policy of 'divide and rule', say the adherents of Pakistan. The British were not able to create gulfs either in America or South Africa. If the British profit by the differences prevailing in India, it is because the differences have come by themselves. Is it the British who created castes among Hindus? Is it the British who invented the Sikh religion? There was never a period in history when Hindus and Muslims were united politically or economically.

The Muslims ruled India for nearly 1,000 years. They developed their culture within Islam, by not marrying non-Muslims their race remained pure while the Hindus divided themselves into castes and formed separate communities, the Muslims united among themselves. Ties of culture, race and religion have in this way moulded the Indian Muslims into a separate nation. Since they form the majority in the northern provinces, how can they be placed under Hindu dominance? Is it possible that a population as large as that of Germany should become a minority in a country? "Whereas 7,000,000 Portuguese and 9,000,000 Belgians have established separate countries by the side of countries with which they are connected by blood and history. Is it too much that the 80,000,000 Muslims who occupy large portions of India should dominate in their own country?"

Supporters of Pakistan also draw attention to the fact that there are communities other than Muslims who are not Hindus. They are different in race religion and in social customs. Among them are Jains, Buddhists, Sikhs, Jews, Christians and others.

The proportion of those who read and write is ten per cent among the Hindus but hardly five among the Muslims. Among the Muslims there are some who have been educated in Europe and who are completely Westernised. They want the Latin alphabet, social reforms and freedom of women—that is, they want India to progress as a western nation. But this class as among the Hindus, is a minority.

The Hindu Mahasabha composed of Hindu extremists, considers excessive the tolerance of the Congress to the Muslims. "India is the property of the Hindus", they say. According to them the Muslims are either Hindus who were converted, or people who came from outside and have therefore no right to ask for special concessions.

There are also extremists among the Muslims. One of them said to me one day: "My own Pakistan is different. Go northward from India, what is there? Afghanistan. Turn to the left what do you find? Persia. Travel left, and you have Turkey. Get downward and there is Iraq. Walk on, and you come to Syria. Lower down is Arabia. Turn again to the right—Egypt. Go on: Benghazi Tripoli, Tunisia, Algeria Morocco. That is my own Pakistan."

It was contended on behalf of the applicant that the Special Judge had no jurisdiction to try the case, because the Special Criminal Courts Ordinance was "ultra vires" of the Governor-General.

The Public Prosecutor submitted on behalf of the Crown that the Special Judge of Chingleput almost concluded the trial and judgment was expected shortly, and that it would not be in the interest of the accused, some of whom might be acquitted by the Special Judge himself.—United Press.

The Half-Column "By Dim"

It is with deep regard that I have learnt of the sad death of Kaikhusroo Taraporewala of the New Book Company the man who by his enterprise and his encouragement made the "Silverfish" possible. He was not just another bookseller. To him his shop was more than a selling place for books. He believed that books were something human and alive and if he spent most of his days in their midst, he knew he was spending it in the midst of the culture of the ages and in the presence of recorded history. He helped a young crowd of enthusiasts to form a Book Club such as never existed in India—a place where young people conld meet and discuss the literature of the day and hear from each other and learn and read. Beautifully furnished, the Silverfish will always remain as a memory to him and I cannot help feeling that had he lived longer, he might have built round him a group of rising, progressive Indian writers whom he had encouraged—for there can be no greater encouragement to the struggling writers of today than to see a prominent bookseller pick up their books and sell them personally to his varied clientele.

Whenever I stepped into his bookshop I always felt I was paying a social call, for he would make me sit down and chat and in a short while he would have introduced me to the new books that had come in. Sometimes he'd pick a book for me and he was seldom wrong for he knew the tastes of individuals with whom he came into personal contact. To him I feel particularly grateful for the encouragement he gave me whenever I had written something new. His order was usually among the first my publishers received and it was always a substantial order and he'd ask me week after week when the copies would arrive. One felt one had arrived somewhere in life if only because his kindness made one feel one was wanted.

There will be many young people in Bombay who will feel sad as I do, at his passing away. He died somewhat suddenly from a bad attack of typhoid and his funeral will, I expect, leave this morning. Those of us who will go to pay our respects to him will wonder who will take his place as the sort of Foyle of Bombay. However short has been his life he has spent it among some of the finest young people of this generation who flocked to his bookshop, if only because he was always there. We shall mourn his loss. We shall pray for his soul.

'PITT THE COMMONER' ON EROS SCREEN

BY T. V. P.

The career of 'The Young Mr. Pitt, is well-known to all students of the history of England. Many school-boys will remember his famous speech about 'the crime of being a young man' which their teachers got them to learn by heart for school gatherings. Eros Cinema shows the biography of this sturdy son of England who said and proved that he alone could save his country and none else could. It is made by 20th Century Fox with Robert Donat as Younger Pitt, the Commoner and also his father Lord Chatham. The characterisations of Wilberforce and Nelson, Pitt's contemporaries have been done as well as that of Pitt. It is a picture for all Matriculation candidates to see. Others will also find it delightful.

"The Glass Key" at Regal is an exciting story of political intrigue starring Brian Donlevy, Veronica Lake and Alan Ladd. The mystery of this story challenges imagination and its romantic triangle is quite stimulating. Strand Cinema presents two first run comedies in a single show "Hay Foot" and "Brooklyn Orchard."

Among the revivals, "The Good Earth" at Aurora is a picture that is worth seeing at any time; "I married an Angel" at Capitol is a fine musical fantasy and "Ship Ahoy" at Palace is very delightful musical with Eleanor Powell as star.

'Tarzan's New York Adventure' is being run for another week at Metro as also "The Gold Rush" at Empire and "Are Husbands Necessary"? at Excelsior.
